The bar chart presents THE number of accidents by different formS of transportation and how many people got injured per each 100 million PMT (passenger miles traveled) in 2002. In overall, It can be said that majority of passengers who had an accident while using from these 5 commonly used vehicles experienced physical damage.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, Commuter rail was the safest option of travelling when only 20 cases of incident occurred and 18 of them had injury per 100 PMT. In contrast, the highest data shows 250 for demand response and more than half of them got injured because of such incidents.

ANOTHER KEY POINT IS THAT Heavy rail seemed to be the second safest option that risked 50 commuters and two thirdS of them got injured in the rail accident per 100 PMT. Similarly the accident data for light rail and bus were same at 75, nevertheless the injury caused by bus accidentS is way higher than that OF the light rail accident.

About 50% of victims had physical damage as a result of the light rail accident whereas 90 percent of bus accident victims got injured physically.

Nowadays, people in all communities take drugs to A certain extent, however younger groups are practicing intake of drugs either legally or illegally. It is claimed by sociologists that their closest family members and others surrounding them play a role in their interest for unhealthy substances and affect children in a wrong way. This essay will discuss some possible causes that create side effects and secondly, suggest some actions that are necessary to be taken to prevent youths from abusing drug.

Directors and tutors at school do not warn children about disadvantages of drugs that children are very curious at their teens and likely to try any form of drug without being aware of its possible dangers. Another reason why illegal drugS is used widely is that those children have easy access to it. According to the local police report in 2017, THE majority of illegal drug users claimed that they had the idea of using when they were teenagers.

In order to stop misuse of drug, schools should give a knowledge about bad consequences of taking harmful substance such as marijuana and also illegal drug dealers should be IMPRISONED. That way, youths will be more aware and prevent both themselves and their friends from BECOMING addicted to dangerous medicine. In my country, for instance, primary schools organize a special day for fighting drug misuse every year in cooperation with police officers and this helped to decrease drug-related crimes significantly last year.

In conclusion, lack of preventive action by educators and the fact that illegal drugS ARE sold easily by dealers are causing many people at young age to become addicted to drugS and the best suggestions to this problem would be giving knowledge about adverse results of misusing drugS and cutting DOWN ON ILLEGAL saleS.
